

Bad Week for Drug Cheats

This week has been good or bad for drug cheats - depending on your point of view if it is good or bad that news of positive tests become common knowledge. To run down the rogues list made public in the past 7 days:

Massimo Giunti -

Pawel and Kacper Szczepaniak-

Thomas Dekker -

These riders were targeted for testing after doping officials found suspicious data in the their blood profiles maintained as part of the governing body's biological passport program. In fact, Dekker had a sample from 2007 tested. So, word to the wise.
